UPHOLDS LEGALITY
OF NEWLANDS ACT

Wage Order Is Modified by Judge in Accordance With Provisions of This Statute.

Reward Is Offered.
Following a conference with Colonel B. L. Bugg, receiver of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad Thursday, Governor Hugh M. Dorsey Friday night offered a reward of $350 in each case for the arrest and conviction of parties who attempted to wreck one train in Coffee county Tuesday and another in Glynn county Wednesday.
It is understood that during Colonel Bugg's conference with the governor that the possibility of issuing a reward was mentioned, and the former was informed that if a written request was made it would be granted.
Accordingly, Receiver Bugg made his application Friday morning and it was acted upon immediately by the chief executive.

Judge Samuel H. Sibley in federal district court here yesterday denied the petition of striking union men of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railway that he rescind his wage reduction order of February 23 and refer the matter to the United States railway labor board for action.
The court, however, upholding the constitutionality of the Newlands act as affecting the controversy, modified the original wage reduction order by exempting the four brotherhoods representing the train crews from the cut in pay.
Judge Sibley in an oral decision at the conclusion of the hearing announced the A., B. & A. question was a judicial one and that today the question of the justness of wages would be taken up before him.

Hearing on Wages.
After Judge Sibley had issued an order permitting Receiver B. L.
Bugg to reduce wages approximately 25 per cent, the court at request of the receiver set a hearing on the wage question for March 26, which will now be taken up. District Judges Clayton and Beverly D. Evans will sit with Judge Sibley in the case. The union men went on strike

Natchez, Miss., March 25.—Lieutenant W. D. Coney, injured in an airplane accident near Crowley, La., early this morning, arrived here shortly before 9 o'clock tonight.

An X-ray examination of Lieutenant Coney's injuries discloses the fact that his back is fractured, according to physicians attending him, who state that he has only about one chance in ten to recover.
He is still conscious and cheerful, but his physicians say fever is developing.

At 10:45 o'clock tonight Drs.
Charles Chamberlain and J. S. Uil-man, in charge of the case, issued the following bulletin regarding the condition of Lieutenant Coney, as disclosed by their examination:
"Lieutenant Coney is suffering from fractures of the third, fourth and fifth lumbar vertebrae. He is paralyzed from chest down; temperature 102. We regard his condition as very serious."
According to physicians accompanying him from Monroe, the injured transcontinental flyer stood the trip as well as could be expected. On his arrival here he was taken in charge by physicians from a local sanitarium and members of the local American Legion post and carried to the sanitarium.

Oglethorpe, Ga., March 25.—(Spe-an attempt to wreck an A., B. & A. locomotive here Friday night resulted in a collision of the locomotive with a Central of Georgia freight train, and the hurling of the locomotive against the engine through the walls of the ticket office, where it lay upon its side.

The ticket agent, who leaped through a glass window when the locomotive began its crash through the walls, was cut with glass. The ticket office was virtually demolished.
A box car and a flat car of the Central of Georgia train were smashed. With the exception of the ticket agent, who was not badly injured, no one was hurt. It is not thought that the locomotive was badly damaged.

After drawing a freight train from Manchester to Oglethorpe during the afternoon, the engine was left upon a coal chute siding, with blocks of wood placed beneath the wheels for security. A watchman, who had been stationed upon the chute to

Million-Dollar Hotel for Atlanta Is Announced; John Manget Arranges for Additions to the Cecil

New Cecil hotel, addition to be erected by John A. Manget, owner. This will be the biggest hotel in the south, with bath in every room.

Hotel Will Be the Biggest South of Philadelphia, With 312 Rooms,
Each With a Bath.

BY PAUL JONES.

Involving a total expenditure of practically $1,000,000, the Cecil hotel will be at once remodeled and enlarged by its owner, John A.
Manget, prominent capitalist and cotton factor of Atlanta.

This is the first announcement to be made of an extensive improvement in the new business district developing along Spring, Cone, Luckie, James and other streets since the people of Atlanta authorized the issue of $750,000 for the erection of a viaduct to connect this new business section with the Terminal station and the south side of the city.

The announcement of the big new hotel project was made by the firm of G. Lloyd Preacher & Co., architects and engineers, who in addition to the new Cecil, have designed many of the best hotels in the southern states.

"The enlarged Cecil," declared the architects, "will not only be one of the finest and most modern appointed commercial hotels in the southern states, but it will be the biggest hotel south of Philadelphia having every room equipped with private baths."

Contracts Are Let.

The contract for the construction of the Cecil hotel enlargement has been let to the Griffin Construction company, one of the most important general contracting firms in Atlanta, and the construction work will be parceled out among various subcontractors as rapidly as possible.

A feature of the promotion of this enterprise is the fact that its every detail is being handled, where possible, by southern men and southern enterprise. The hotel will be solely an Atlanta affair, and after completion it will be operated by Atlanta men. That the erection of the building should be confined as much as practicable to southern people was the aim of the owner, John A. Manget, who insists that from the firm furnishing the money upon which to erect the structure, to the smallest subcontractor, Atlantians, Georgians or at least southern people should be chosen.

Plans for the new portion of the Cecil hotel have just been completed by the architects named above, and it is announced that the work of construction will get under way as quickly as possible.

Berlin Reports Victory Over Revolutionaries
After Fierce Struggle at Eisleben and Hettstedt.

Berlin, March 25.—Advices received tonight from the disturbed industrial areas in middle Germany state that the police recaptured Eisleben and Hettstedt from the communists after violent fighting.
The communists have taken possession of large nitrogen works in Leuna, near Halle, where they are reported to have formed a red army of 6,000.

Leaders of the communists at Eisleben, the advances add, were overthrown and fighting in the Mansfeld district has ceased.

Resumption of work in Eisleben has been made conditional by the police commander upon the restoration of order, the return of property and the handing over to the authorities of all ammunition. He promised that those who voluntarily surrendered would not be punished.

The communist leaders have undertaken to the utmost to fulfill these demands.

Eisleben, Germany, March 25.— Fighting between the communists and security police for possession of Eisleben had extended this morning to a half-mile front in the western section of the town with the positions of advantage changing hands from moment to moment.

The communist army of 2,500 was being reinforced steadily by peasants and villagers coming into town on foot and on bicycles.
They carried army guns in the hope of surrounding the town thousand security police and destroying them.

Rifles, machine guns, grenades and dynamite, which were heard throughout the night, had become a continuous rumble, resembling drumfire. From the post and telegraph building the combat was visible and above the roar of firing could be heard calls of en-

Easter Trousseau
For Male Citizen
Only Costs $500

Details of Sartorial Perfection for Easter Morn Told to Anxious World.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, March 25.—To be really well-dressed for the Easter Sunday parade, whether on Fifth avenue or just for a turn up Walnut street past the Merchants House in Xenia, the American citizen really ought to have the following trousseau:

One cutaway, at $150; one pair of dark, striped and slightly bellotted trousers, at $25; single-breasted, gray waistcoat without lapels, at $30; a bit of a straight stick at $20; a square, black bowler or silk top hat, at $15; two low-cut patent leather shoes, one for each foot, at $12.50 a shoe or $25 the pair; one shirt, collar, tie, socks and gloves.

The entire outfit should not cost a cent over $500. A year ago the well-dressed woman's opposite number couldn't superimpose an Easter kit on his frame for less than $750 or $800, so it is plain what the buyers' strike has done to reduce the cost of being a well-dressed man on the morning of the great splurge.

Some "Impossibilities."

Hardly anyone will be wearing corridor trousers, tan socks or a necktie with morning dress this year. The decrees of fashion are inflexible in these matters. Neither will the checkered cap be considered de rigueur and a crook-handled stick will be unparadiseable.
"No, I don't know where these laws come from and I've read the constitution, too," said Stuart Brown, of Sulka and company, on Fifth avenue, where Enrico Caruso, James A. Stillman and Charles M.
Schwab buy their equipment. "I just know that wearing lapels on a morning waistcoat this year is considered as bad as whiffing coffee but of one's saucer, which hasn't been done on the avenue since the invention of the electric fan."

In the smart men's shops one ter parade will carry two bankers, both sheer in texture and costing about $3.50 each. One of them will —must—be carried in the left-hand trousers pocket and the other will be carried in the right-hand

PLAN TO ABOLISH
ATLANTA BOARDS
WINS FIRST STEP

Proposition Voted on Favorably at Meeting of Ordinance Committee of Council Friday.

Abolition of city boards, proposed in a resolution introduced in council by Councilmen Woodall and Farr, was before the ordinance committee Friday afternoon. Councilman J. R. Nutting was the only member present who opposed doing away with the boards, and he signed a minority report.

Council can abolish only those boards that were created by ordinance. The police, school, fire and water boards are charter bodies and cannot be dissolved except through an act of the legislature. Specified to be cut off by the councilman are the board of trustees of the cemetery commission and the board of electrical control. Their functions would then be vested in city committees.

If council acts to abolish these boards then the authors of the resolution will start their fight on the charter boards, asking council to recommend to the general assembly the dissolution of all the charter boards.

Action on a petition requesting reinauguration of the daylight-saving plan was deferred. The petition, signed by hundreds of citizens, was presented at the last meeting of council and referred to the committee. The citizens requested that on the last Sunday in March the clock be advanced one hour and remain ahead until the last Sunday in October.

The committee advised a proposed ordinance to make Gilmer street, from its intersection with Ivy to its intersection with Courtland, non-parking.

Prominent Jasper County Farmer Says There Is in Manning's Statement.

LAND LINES AND STOCK
CAUSE, HE DECLARES

Says All His Troubles
Have Been Result of Controversy With the Leverett Family.

A smoldering feud between the Leverett and Williams families, riv-alling those of Kentucky, charges of a "frame-up to break Williams" neck in the federal court," and a story of frequent clashes between the two factions, were all disclosed Friday night in the denial of John Williams, Jasper county farmer now held in the Fulton Tower under indictment for murder, of the confession of Clyde Manning, colored, involving him in the killing of eleven negroes.

For more than a month the finding of three negro bodies in the Yellow river, near Covington, has puzzled state, county and federal officials, and the confession of Manning, that he had knocked four negroes in the head with an ax in one week and helped drown others at the command of Williams, was the first light thrown on the mystery.

This confession was made Thursday before the Newton county grand jury. Both Manning and Williams were indicted for murder and ruished here for safe keeping. Newton county officials arrived here with Manning and Clyde Freeman, held as a material witness, Thursday night. Williams was placed in the Tower Friday afternoon, where he discussed the charges against him with a Constitution reporter last night.

"It's All a Lie."

"It's all a lie," he declared when asked if the charges made by Manning were true. "This trouble all began six or seven years ago and was caused by controversies over the male sex, are under the government of Williams, was the first light thrown on the mystery.

"In any negroes have been killed by Manning it was under the government of the Leveretts and not mine.
It's all a frame-up between these boys to break my neck in the federal courts," he continued. "It is true that I have secured some negroes from jail. I have bailed them out just as other farmers, and I have paid them salaries. There has been nothing illegal in such transactions of mine."

Williams was asked if there had been any recent trouble between the two families.

"Yes," he replied. "Last fall they (the Leverett boys) charged my boys with having reported a still to county officials and a shooting scrape almost resulted from that. Not long ago Dave Leverett and I had a fight and in the course of it that they threatened to 'break our necks' in the negro charges."

Defense by Williams.
"If I had killed the negroes, I wouldn't have carried them 14 miles away to dump them in a river, but I would have placed them in the river near my farm, where I know the depth," he continued.

"Manning's statement is a positive lie. I never shot one of the negroes, nor ordered him to hit four of them in the head, and neither did I haul six of them to points on the Yellow river, where they were drowned 'like cats,' as the federal courts."

Williams appears unconcerned against him, and declares he will "come clear." He asserts that he has friends in several counties and can prove that Manning's statements are not true. His large

Cold Reception Given Proposal to Governor
Dorsey by Poole of Im-

Prominent Atlantans, interested in the clearing of the police department and the breaking up of the bunco ring, last night announced that they had retained counsel to act with Solicitor-General John A.
Boykin through the trials of the bunco cases and the investigation of the council committee.

The action was taken not only because they believed that the solicitor-general is tremendously overworked at this time, but because they wished to show some concrete evidence of the fact that they are with him, and not in his crusade against alleged police corruption in Atlanta.

The name of the attorney was not made public Friday night, but will be today and an invitation will be extended to those organizations and individuals who have increased the efforts of the solicitor to bring the ring and those conniving with its members to justice, to help back his fight with financial means.
Civic organizations and women's clubs have indicated their battle to clean up the city.

Ignoring counsel charges, which fective department, through Aldine Chambers and Judge J. K. Hines, counsel for Detective Chief Lamar Poole, Solicitor-General John A.

Boykin Friday plunged into the preparation of the case he will present to the special investigating committee of city council next week.

In doing so he announced "my

Sunday's Constitution to Carry Complete Story of Bunco Syndicate

The Constitution tomorrow will publish, for the first time, the complete story of the confidence ring, whose operations from headquarters in Atlanta, as revealed from time to time by Solicitor Boykin, have furnished the most amazing reading of a decade. All the intensely interesting data of this swindlebund, whose activities stretched from Florida to Pennsylvania, its exact modus operandi and its final scattering to the four winds have been compiled by James A. Hollomon into a profusely illustrated, dramatic story.

In a generation supposed to be wise to the ways of the ton man, this bunco ring's activities probably ran into the millions. Full knowledge has already been gained of over $250,000 secured from victims here in Atlanta. Men of moderate means hardly hesitated before turning over twenty or thirty thousand dollars to the swindlers, even going to their homes in other states and bringing large sums here for the ultimate benefit of this gang of thieves.

Just how did the bunco ring accomplish this?

Their methods are alleged to have stretched from picking pockets to murder, and to have embraced both well-known wire-tapping and fake bucket-shop games. But that was merely the frame work for the activities of the slickest band of rogues of the present age and a full understanding of just what made the victims give up the savings of a lifetime can be fully understood only after perusal of the elaborate story which Mr. Hollomon has written for Sunday's Constitution.

GREAT DAY PROMISED AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Tomorrow promises to be the greatest day in the history of St. Paul's Methodist church, south. The day marks the fiftieth anniversary of the organization. It is also going to be a home-coming day for all present and former members. It marks, also, the beginning of a series of revival services. A full day's program has been arranged, and includes a sunrise prayer meeting at 6 o'clock in the morning. At 8:45 the teachers and officers of the Sunday school meet for a special prayer and praise service. At 9:30 o'clock the Sunday school begins with appropriate services. At the 11 o'clock services there will be special music, short talks by the laymen and a sermon by the pastor, Rev. W. G. Crawley. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a mass meeting for men. This meeting will be addressed by the pastor. Efforts are being made to have men from all the churches of the city present at this meeting. At 6:30 o'clock in the evening an old time love feast will be held in the church auditorium and at the same hour, in the F. O. B. Judge Bell's decision Friday upholds the ruling of Recorder Johnson, who fined Garrett $25.00 for violation of the city traffic ordinances. Dr. Garrett was charged with having failed to observe the traffic rules by not giving a warning signal while turning into a gasoline station, causing a collision between his machine and an automobile of Fire Chief Cody, which was returning from a fire. J. C. Davis, counsel for Dr. Garrett, certioraried the case on the grounds that the city ordinance was not constitutional. Judge Bell overruled the certiorari.

BOY SINGER WILL GIVE WEEK'S PAY TO IRISH RELIEF

George McManee, the famous 10-year-old boy singer from St. Louis, Mo., who is a member of the celebrated Paulist choir of that city, arrived in Atlanta Friday with his parents, and has signed a contract with the Criterion theater to sing there all of next week. A feature of the engagement is that the juvenile singer has donated the proceeds of the week's contract to the Irish relief drive, now being conducted in Atlanta and throughout the United States for the benefit of suffering women and children of Ireland. Manager W. C. Patterson stated that while it was a bit out of the ordinary for the theater to offer anything but a moving picture program, the boy's voice made such an impression on him that he was immediately offered the contract. It is reported that Master McManee is in Atlanta with his parents in preparation to make this city their home.

Puritan

"The Taste Tells" Hams

The fitting Easter feast

Anticipation requires ham that is beyond the ordinary for the Easter festival. The occasion demands the best, the finest.

We suggest Puritan for this annual event, first, because we exercise the greatest possible care and discernment in the selection of young, tender, smooth-skinned meats for the Puritan cure.

Second, because we are particular—very particular—in the preparation, curing and smoking of these meats. For example, we use purest granulated sugar. We use exclusive methods.

Third, because Puritan Hams are uniformly mild, and sweet. No excess salt. Nothing to mar the most complete enjoyment.

Be particular. Order Puritan. A whole ham will be most economical. Ask for it by name and say "Puritan."

TRADE RESUMPTION PUT UP TO RUSSIA

Hughes Sends Message to Soviet Representative, Saying Change in Conditions Must Be Assured.

Washington, March 25.—Resumption of trade relations with Russia will depend upon satisfactory assurances that "fundamental changes are contemplated involving the regard for the protection of persons and property and establishment of conditions essential to the maintenance of commerce," Secretary Hughes says in a message sent today to the Russian soviet representative at Reval.

The message was in reply to the recent appeal of the soviet government at Moscow that the United States again trade with Russia and that it negotiate with a delegation to be sent to this country for the purpose of the soviet authorities. The note was transmitted through the American consul at Reval, as the original message from the soviet government was received from the soviet representative there.

No Specific Reply.
The state department is known to take the position that there was no occasion at this time to reply specifically to the proposal of the bolsheviks that a trade delegation be received by the American government.

Sufficient opportunity, it is held, is given in the request of the American government for assurance from the soviet government of a change in heart as affecting their communistic principles and the rights of private property for later consideration of the question of the resumption of trade.

It is known that no intimation of recognition of the soviet government was meant to be contained by the state department in the reply to the soviet representative made plain, however, that the American government was not disposed to question the holding by Russia of any political philosophy which she pleased, but was concerned principally with the underlying basis of trade were to be respected by the soviet government.

Desires to Aid.
The government of the United States, says the communication, "views with deep sympathy and grave concern the plight of the people of Russia and desires to aid by every appropriate means in promoting proper commerce."

It is manifest to this government that in existing circumstances there is no assurance that the development of commerce which can be established upon a sound basis. It is only in the productivity of Russia that there is any hope for the Russian people and it is idle to expect resumption of trade until the economic bases of production are securely established. Production is conducted under the safety of life, the recognition by firm guarantees of private property, the sanctity of contract, and the rights of free labor.

In fundamental changes are contemplated involving the maintenance of commerce, this government will be glad to have convincing evidence of the consummation of such changes, and until this evidence is supplied this government is unable to perceive that there is any proper basis for considering trade relations.

GERMANY IGNORES RUSS TRADE PLANS.

Berlin, March 25.—The German press and public both apparently are indifferent to the efforts of the various powers to re-establish trade relations with soviet Russia. England's arrangement, made through Leonid Krassin, soviet minister of trade and commerce, followed by the announcement that Dr. Stahler, German commercial representative in Moscow, had perfected a protocol preparatory to a Russo-German trade agreement caused little comment here and the soviet note to President Harding.

seeking trade relations with the United States, did not inspire any great comment.

The murder of Count von Mirbach, German ambassador in Moscow, and the inability of Dr. Karl Helfferich to remain as ambassador to Russia because of the attempts made upon his life, convinced then German foreign office of the difficulty of diplomatic relations with soviet Russia in a thorough and practical way. This view was strengthened by the propaganda campaign waged by Leonid Krassin, soviet ambassador in Berlin, which resulted in his expulsion from Germany. The Russian embassy building here is still in charge of the German government and a German bank is holding Mr. Joffe's bank account, which many claimants are disputing.

The protocol negotiated by Dr. Stahler has not yet been approved by the cabinet, which must act before it becomes effective, but its approval undoubtedly will be forthcoming as the protocol is chiefly a record of the telegraph, telephone, railway and postal arrangements which have long been in effect, and other agreements. The protocol does not provide for the restoration of diplomatic relations, but gives the consular authority necessary to legalize business agreements. The Russian government formally acknowledges Germany's part that the Russian soviet department of commerce has been given the right of important and export business, and has in Germany the right of a German body.

Neither German business men nor German officials believe any coming as the protocol is chiefly a record of the telegraph, telephone, railway and postal arrangements which have long been in effect, and other agreements. The protocol does not provide for the restoration of diplomatic relations, but gives the consular authority necessary to legalize business agreements. The Russian government formally acknowledges Germany's part that the Russian soviet department of commerce has been given the right of important and export business, and has in Germany the right of a German body.

England's trade agreement with Russia is not a commercial treaty, but a political agreement, which has been in negotiation for a long time. Although the German government generally believes England's agreement was made largely for the purpose of getting concessions and without the thought that an important exchange of products can take place upon the Russian government modifies its policy, still the German government is unwilling to lag far behind in the Russian trade negotiations because of the importance to Germany of commercial interests of a resumption of trade with Russia.

"We'll Get Bergdoll If It Is Possible," Is Weeks' Promise

Washington, March 25.—"We are going to get Bergdoll if it is possible to get him," Secretary Weeks declared today in discussing the case of the Philadelphia draft evader now in Germany. "I don't believe we will recognize any statute of limitation in his case if one should exist."

Secretary Weeks would not say what steps would be taken to get Bergdoll out of Germany. He refused to discuss the possibility of his extradition to Great Britain for violation of British passport laws, but did say that he assumed that if the state of war between the United States and Germany were declared at an end, extradition of the draft evader would be possible.

Secretary Weeks announced formally that Brigadier General Allen had made overtures to the German government looking to the pardoning of Carl Neuf and Franz Zimmer, Americans sentenced to prison terms at Eberbach, Germany, for attempting to arrest Bergdoll on German soil. The secretary said General Allen was optimistic that the two men soon would be released.

It also was disclosed that General Allen has long been in communication with the German authorities concerning the cases of Neuf and Zimmer. The German government, it was said, had been anxious to meet General Allen's wishes that the men be released before their trial, but it did not justify itself in attempting to interfere with the functions of the courts at Baden. General Allen has reported to the war department that Neuf and Zimmer are well cared for and comfortable in the prison where they are held.

Debs, Unguarded, Returns to City And Prison Cell

Prisoner Met at Station by Warden and by Battery of Cameras.

Completing the most unique trip ever made by a prisoner in the history of the Atlanta federal penitentiary, Eugene V. Debs, who is serving a ten-year term for obstructing the draft, returned Friday at noon from Washington, where he went to confer with Attorney-General Daugherty, concerning a plea for his liberty.

Debs was unguarded and untended upon the trip to Washington and he was placed upon his honor in more than one way. He was not only bound to refrain from giving out anything that transpired between himself and the head of the department of justice, but "well minded" persons were warned to respect the silence imposed upon the noted prisoner, and newspaper reporters were stopped from seeking to interview him concerning his case.

Debs was met upon his return by a large number of friends and admirers, as well as by many who were curious to see the man who had spent four years in the federal prison. There were also several movie machines ready to record in graphic style the return of the prisoner, who traveled to the national capital to discuss his own freedom with the chief of the department of justice, and who returned to the walls of the prison without a guard.

Met by Attorney.
His attorney, Samuel M. Castleton, also met the train, and he talked for a few moments with Debs after the train arrived at Brookwood station.

Warden Fred Zerbst was at the station with an automobile, and after Debs landed again upon Atlanta soil, the warden took him into the car and they drove to the prison, from which Debs had been allowed to depart two years before upon his own recognizance.

The prisoner was dressed in a plain suit of citizen's clothing, which was of a cheap texture, colored gray, but his appearance was neat and his manner dignified. He arrived on the Birmingham special, the Southern railway, which reached Atlanta at 11:25 a. m., having left Washington at 3:30 Thursday afternoon.

Debs greeted many of his friends and admirers in the best humored way, giving each of them a smiling greeting. He commented upon his trip briefly and had nothing to say concerning his conference with the attorney-general.

Immediately upon his arrival Debs was taken into the waiting car and driven with the warden back to the federal prison, where he again took up the dreary life of a prisoner. On the way to the prison, it was stated, he evinced the greatest interest in Atlanta and commented upon the buildings and the improvements that are being made here.

Debs announced to the newspaper men that he had held an informal conference with Castleton, his attorney, on the trip from Buford, and that the latter was authorized to make a statement for him. Castleton said:

"While Comrade Debs would not discuss his case for publication, he said the republican administration had a spirit of fairness in extending an invitation to him to present his own case. He also feels that regardless of the decision of the attorney-general and the president, whether favorable or adverse, they displayed a spirit of fairness in requesting his point of view so they might be in a position to act with a full knowledge of the facts surrounding his case."

Impressed by Faith.
"He seemed to be impressed by their faith in his high sense of honor in calling him there alone and unguarded, and understanding that he would violate no prison rules or regulations. Now he is deeply impressed with the extreme courtesy extended him. I also feel confident that Debs and Daugherty had a heart-to-heart talk and that they will understand each other's position. We discussed many personal matters and he was in high spirits."

Debs' journey to and from Washington is without precedent in the history of the department of justice. He left Washington at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. His movement from the prison to Washington was so carefully guarded that no one recognized him, or if they did not a resemblance in the tall, thin figure clad in conventional civilian attire, they made no effort to make it known to him.

Debs was tried and convicted for violation of the espionage law at Cleveland, Ohio, in September, 1918, and sentenced to 10 years in the federal penitentiary. The indictment was returned against him on June 16, 1918, as a result of an address he made before the Ohio Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers at Canton in June.

What Debs Said.
The indictment was based on portions of a speech in which he said: "Wars have been waged for conquests, for plunder, and since the feudal lords have made war upon each other. But they didn't go to war for the sake of the world. Their predecessors declared the war, but their minds were not on the world. The master class always has brought a war and the subject class has fought it. The master class has had all to gain and nothing to lose, and the subject class has had all to lose and nothing to gain. They always have taught you that your patriotic duty is to go to war and slaughter yourself at their command. You never have a war unless the master class has made the war and made the peace."

He was removed to Moundsville, W. Va., penitentiary to begin his sentence on April 12, 1919. He was later transferred to the United States supreme court and the sentence of the lower court upheld.

He was removed to the federal prison at Washington, D. C., in June, 1920, where he was held until his trip to Washington.

Debs was born in Terra Haute, Ind., November 8, 1855, of French ancestry. He was educated in the schools of the Terra Haute and Indianapolis railway at the age of 16. He worked as a fireman for the same railroad.

Four years later he became a clerk in the office of the Louisville and Nashville railway. He was elected city clerk, which office he held for four years, and was a candidate for president of the United States in 1900.

His first step in the labor movement was taken in 1915 when he organized the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was organized in Terra Haute. He later became a member of the American Railway Union and was elected president of the same in 1917. He was elected to the Indiana legislature in 1918 in the interest of the same.

A few months later he was elected to the Indiana legislature and served one term. He has been a candidate for president four times, the last campaign being conducted from the penitentiary.

TO DECIDE NEXT WEEK.
Washington, March 25.—Attorney-General Daugherty will submit recommendations to President Harding, favoring or opposing clemency for Eugene V. Debs, next week.

He said he wished to study the case over the weekend before reaching a decision.

Debs, socialist leader, is serving a ten-year sentence in Atlanta penitentiary. He presented his case in person to Daugherty at the latter's office Thursday. Daugherty had hoped to make recommendations regarding Debs at the cabinet meeting Friday. That was discussed, it was learned, but no conclusions were reached.

Mr. Harriet Stanton Blatch, head of the socialist political amnesty committee, in commenting on the unique trip Debs made from Atlanta to Washington at Attorney-General Daugherty's request, declared that Debs did not plead his own case before Daugherty, it has always been Debs' attitude that he would not personally seek a pardon.

That interview of three hours with the attorney-general, said Mrs. Blatch, "was his working in the statement which Mr. Daugherty gave out, he said Debs presented his own case to the trial court and jury. He was permitted to do so here. There is a significance in that statement. The attorney-general's office is now in a position to make a statement for him."

long the hearing is expected to continue.

UNESCORTED TRIP OF DEBS ASSAILED BY GEORGIA LEGION

Indianapolis, Ind., March 25.—While on his nearly unescorted trip to Washington, where he is to appear before the attorney-general, Eugene V. Debs was assailed by the Georgia Legion, in commenting tonight on the protest of the Georgia department of justice, which was shown Eugene V. Debs by the government authorities.

The telegram sent by A. L. Hendon, Georgia commander, was as follows: "Georgia department observes by press that Eugene V. Debs, a prominent consideration for a criminal duly convicted by constituted authority, is being released from prison. Clear distinction between oppression because of opinion of free speech and overt criminal act of Debs. This department vigorously protests any further acts of disloyalty to the United States by criminals and in keeping with previous action of national body urges whole influence of national organization be used against pardon of Debs."

U. S. COURT RETAINS A. B. & A. CASE CONTROL

after the reduction and have been seeking to have the matter referred to the labor board, which had previously refused to grant the reduction pending further conference.

The provision of the Newlands act requiring 20 days' notice to employees of carriers in receivership before wage reductions are made was upheld by Judge Sibley. He declared, however, that as he saw it the provisions applied only to the four brotherhoods representing train crews, and he modified his wage order to that extent.

For Declaration of Court.
In effect Judge Sibley declared no board or law has a right to fix wages so high that a railroad cannot pay them and operate, and, while asserting that in some instances a labor board might be a better judge of wages than granted by the courts, in this case the question was one to be decided in court. He also declined to order striking employees restored to their jobs. The road has contended that it was running at a daily loss of $4,000 under the wages fixed by the board last August.

Had No Jurisdiction.
The court further held that the labor board had itself ruled that it had no jurisdiction in the B. & A. case because it held that the conferences between the employees and the railroad company, in which the company took the position that it would have to reduce wages because it was not earning enough to pay the wages then in effect, did not furnish any reason why the wages were unjust and unreasonable.

Colonel B. L. Bugg, receiver, stated Friday night that as a result of Judge Sibley's order of Friday, the trainmen exempted from the wage reduction will be paid at the old wage rate for the five days they worked after the reduction order was issued.

Following is the text of Judge Sibley's order of Friday amending the previous order: "It is ordered by the court that the employees described in Section 1 of the act of Congress of July 15, 1913, Ch. 6-30, statutes at large 103, are excepted from the operation of the order of February 28, 1921, with reference to the wages."

"This 25th day of March, 1921." "SAMUEL H. SIBLEY, Judge."

The strike on the A. B. & A. started March 1, approximately 1,500 union men quitting work on trains and in shops and stations. For a time transportation was paralyzed, but recently the road has announced daily operation of passenger and freight trains on all divisions.

Courtsroom Crowded.
The opinion of the court was delivered from the bench late Friday afternoon after counsel for both sides of the wage controversy had concluded arguments in the hearing which began Tuesday afternoon. The courtroom was crowded to the corridors with spectators, the majority being strikers and their families. Several union officials were present.

Reuben R. Arnold, representing the Birmingham Trust company, the creditor which instituted receivership proceedings against the carrier, took up the argument when the hearing convened at 9 o'clock. Mr. Arnold contended that it was unconstitutional to require a railroad to pay more for wages than it was earning. He submitted figures purporting to show tremendous losses by the road during 1920 and January of 1921.

Mr. Arnold was followed by Hooper Alexander, United States district attorney, who appeared at the request of Attorney-General Daugherty, to defend the constitutionality of section 9 of the Newlands act. After speaking for only five minutes he was interrupted by Judge Sibley, who sustained the constitutionality of the section. With that Mr. Alexander concluded his speech. The final argument was made by James A. Arnold, attorney for the striking employees.

Following two alleged attempts to wreck passenger trains on the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railway, the Coffee county grand jury, under whose jurisdiction the Douglas attempt on the morning of Tuesday, March 22, took place, adopted resolutions severely condemning the attempted crimes and calling for the offer of a reward for the would-be criminals.

The action of the Coffee county grand jury asked that Governor Dorey offer a suitable reward in order that efforts to apprehend the criminals who would have wrecked the A. B. & A. passenger train might be stimulated.

The Coffee county grand jury believed to be the slayers of J. L. Bourgeois, 73, and 15-year-old Lacey Murphee, as far as Atlanta today. Chief Deputy Fred McMillan and his squad of men returned to Birmingham for tonight, unsuccessful in their attempts to catch him.

J. E. Taylor, chief of police of Leeds, and several officers have continued the chase, going to Chattanooga, where they believe the negro is headed. Police authorities all along the route have been notified and are on the lookout for the man. After officers have spent all of yesterday searching for clues in the case, a call was received at the sheriff's office this morning that the negro had been surrounded at a point between Lovick and Springville. Information received in Birmingham was to the effect that the negro had been seen with a shotgun on the day of the murder in the vicinity of where the aged man and youth were killed near Henry Ellen and when seen yesterday was stealing through a dense wood. However, the officers failed to find the negro on reaching the scene.

It is stated that the information from the officers regarding the negro was furnished by a train crew. All day officers have been tracking the negro and his men continued the chase, where they were informed he had been seen. Chief of Police Taylor and his men continued the chase in order to allow the Birmingham officers to return. The intended destination of the negro is believed to be Chattanooga and telegrams have been sent to the Tennessee city by Sheriff Hartfield and officers state that every road into that city is being watched.

REFUSE SUBMISSION TO LABOR BOARD.
Denison, Texas, March 25.—Representatives of unskilled workmen employed by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad today rejected a proposal that the question of wage adjustments be left to the railroad labor board for settlement, and notified railroad officials they would reply to the proposal made by the board for a wage cut of from 30 to 40 per cent at a conference to be held in St. Louis April 21.

ALLIES REJECT GERMAN REPLY ON REPARATIONS
Paris, March 25.—The German delegation here today delivered to the allied reparations commission the German reply to the note sent by the commission yesterday giving Germany warning of the infliction of penalties under the peace treaty unless she paid before May 1 the 13,000,000,000 gold marks balance of the 20,000,000,000 marks payment due under article 235 of the treaty. The commission decided that the reply was unacceptable in its present form and refused to accept it from the German delegates. The Germans agreed to draft another reply which, however, will not be ready before next week.

had been surrounded and assistance was needed created much excitement in Birmingham and Sheriff Hartfield sent all of his deputies heavily armed to the scene. However, they returned tonight, declaring that the negro had not been seen.

In the meantime, John L. Kendrick and John Davis, who reside in the neighborhood of Henry Ellen, are being held in the county jail in connection with the double murder. They were brought to Birmingham this morning.

MOB PERSUADED TO DEFER TO LAW BY FATHER'S PLEA

latin this afternoon was threatened with mob violence when a crowd of 200 men, some of them armed, surrounded the county jail there, where it was supposed the three negroes figuring in the double killing at Cottonwood, Sumner county, a week ago, were confined. The mob spirit subsided following an appeal from the father of Thomas Mitchell, the Sumner county slain, that the law be allowed to take its course. Adjutant General Brummitt, with fifty men of the state police, left here this afternoon to take charge of the situation at Gallatin. The crowd had left the Gallatin jail but members of it were collected about the public square.

MANY DIGNITARIES TO HONOR GIBBONS

Greatest Gathering of Catholic Dignitaries, Clergy and Other Notables to Attend Prelate's Funeral.

Baltimore, March 25.—Preparations for the funeral Thursday of Cardinal Gibbons were approaching completion at the arch-episcopal residence today. Meanwhile, the body of the prelate will remain in the chamber where he died yesterday, until Sunday evening, when it will be taken to the cathedral, and there lie in state until it is removed to its resting place in the crypt under the chancel after the final services.

Monsignor Bonzano, apostolic delegate at Washington, has been chosen to pontificate at the solemn requiem mass Thursday, and Archbishop J. J. Glennon, of St. Louis, who delivered the sermon at Cardinal Gibbons' golden jubilee here in 1911, also will preach the funeral sermon.

The occasion will cause the greatest gathering of Catholic church dignitaries and clergy ever witnessed in this country. Members of the diplomatic corps from Catholic countries represented at Washington and many high national and state officials will attend. Attired in his arch-episcopal vestments, the cardinal's body lies on the bed in which he died. Prayers for the repose of his soul are being said without intermission, day and night. Members of the Christian Brothers perform this duty at night, while seminarians from St. Mary's Theological seminary, here, recite the office in the daytime.

This will continue until the body is taken into the cathedral Sunday evening.

day evening, when a guard of honor from the Knights of Columbus, Ancient Order of Hibernians and other Catholic organizations will keep constant vigil at the bier, until the day of the funeral. The cathedral will be open continuously during this period.

VATICAN FILLED WITH GRIEF.

Rome, March 24.—News of the death of Cardinal Gibbons caused the most profound grief at the Vatican, coming as a particular shock to Pope Benedict, who had just written a letter of consolation to the cardinal, having heard he had recovered his health. "Both church and America have lost one of their greatest men," exclaimed the pontiff, on being informed of the death. "The name of Cardinal Gibbons will go down in history."

His Holiness knelt after thus voicing his grief, and remained a long time at the prie dieu in the deepest prayer.

Affected by Loss. As the news spread throughout the Vatican expressions of the sincere condolence uttered on all sides. Monsignor Cerretti, the papal undersecretary of state, was especially affected by the loss. He recalled his long intercourse with the cardinal, remarking, "feeling that posterity would be certain to retain the memory of the prelate, both for his achievements as an ecclesiastic and his worth as an American citizen."

Cardinal Dougherty was deeply affected by the news from Baltimore. "By the death of Cardinal Gibbons," said Cardinal Dougherty, "the church in America has lost the greatest man in its history and our country its foremost citizen. He was the truly great man of the American council which met under Pius IX, and also of the bishops' third plenary council at Baltimore, and was the oldest member of the sacred college of cardinals. Several generations of Catholics in the United States looked up to him as their leader. Americans, irrespective of creed, regarded him as a patriot and guide."

Many Send Messages. The pontiff, Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, and Monsignor Cerretti sent heartfelt messages of sympathy to Baltimore, and Monsignor O'Herron, rector of the American college, also called his personal condolence and those of the college.

Preparations are being made for the celebration of a solemn requiem mass for the late cardinal in his titular church of Santa Maria, in Trastevere.

NEGRO IS SAVED FROM LYNCHING AFTER CAPTURE

Raleigh, N. C., March 25.—Deputy Sheriff W. D. Edwards and four spe-dially deputized assistants, after eluding a mob of several hundred men bent on lynching, this afternoon placed George Moore, a negro, in the Wake county jail here. Moore is charged with an attempt to attack the wife of a prominent white farmer near Wake Forest, 20 miles north of here, early today.

The negro had been captured by a few members of a large posse of farmers and was backed up to a tree awaiting the arrival of rope with which to hang him when the deputy's party arrived and rescued him, according to the report brought here.

The ringed bear snake was worshipped by the early Mexicans.

Witnesses Charge

Threat to Murder

In Bigham Trial

Florence, S. C., March 25.—Testimony that Edmund Bigham, on trial for the murder of his mother, brother, sister and the latter's two adopted children, had been seen going to the woods where his brother's body later was found, and also that he had been seen with a pearl handled revolver such as was later found in the dead man's hand, was given at Bigham's trial here today. Threats against the family were charged to the defendant.

The state charges that Edmund Bigham killed the members of his family over financial troubles, and in an effort to support this it brought testimony of Mrs. Geo. Kirtton, a neighbor, that Mrs. Margie Black, the sister who was killed, had expressed fear of some person whom she did not name, who she said had stolen some blank signed checks to her property.

Smiley Bigham, the brother who was killed, had also expressed fear that Edmund Bigham would kill all of them, according to Mrs. Kirtton, who quoted him as saying:

"Edmund is cutting up a lot and threatening to kill all of us. He has had all that is coming to him, but we are willing to give him a piece of land if he will behave himself."

George Steele testified that Edmund had told him his mother just before dying declared "Smiley did it. Smiley has killed her. He was in the afternoon Walter Burch, a negro boy, declared that Edmund Bigham had threatened him with death if he obeyed the orders of Mrs. Bigham to go for County Police Officer Rose.

The trial was delayed somewhat today by illness of a juror but later an effort was made to hurry it as under the law a mistrial must be declared unless a verdict has been rendered by midnight Saturday night. A mistrial would result in the case going over until the summer term.

Judge Memminger, presiding, suggested late today that a session be held tonight to expedite the case and the state concurred, but A. L. King, for the defense, objected, and Judge Memminger then announced he would open court earlier tomorrow morning.

Whether the defense can conclude its testimony in which it has indicated it will seek to show that Smiley Bigham killed the four and then committed suicide, and arguments and the state charge can be completed in time for a verdict before midnight Saturday night, remains doubtful tonight.

Spats Should Be "Twinkies." Stuart Brown is up on all these things and he says the spats, if any, spats being optional, should be something rather twinkie. If you get what he means, in fawn or gray. A neat spat catches the eye, but doesn't offend it.

This matter of the silk hat causes lots of worry. After all one doesn't wear one's silly old topper more than once a year. Therefore it is useless to get out of the year except to put receipts and coupons and combings in. So Mr. Brown says the bowler hat, sometimes called the derby or iron boiler, is permissible.

The $500 blanket price only covers externals, and with such stylish underwear at corresponding prices, the lads of the avenue are praying for a warm Easter Sunday.

The case was appealed to the state supreme court.

DENIES HE ORDERED DEATH FOR NEGROES

plantation is located almost midway between Covington and Monticello, in Jasper county, near the Newton county line.

"I am 54 years old; married and have 12 children. I have never been arrested before in my life, and I am going to prove I am not guilty of these charges," Greene Johnson and W. H. Key, of Monticello, have been employed as my counsel and will arrive soon to take charge of the case," he said.

Repeats Confession.
Manning repeated his sensational confession Friday after he had been lodged in the Fulton county Tower.

He described how he had killed five of the negroes and helped drown six others, acting in each instance, he claimed, under orders of his employer. For 15 years he has resided on the Williams farm, he asserted, and there are a number of negroes being held in peonage there, he said.

"I knocked down negroes in the head with an ax and one week and buried them in a pasture back of Mr. Williams' house," declared Manning.

"Why did I do it? Because the boss said he wanted to get rid of the negroes and that was his business. I'm a dissembler, he'd kill me. And I knew he meant what he said."

"Charlie Chisholm, another one of Mr. Williams' trusted negroes, put in a little while—he killed one suspicious negro by braining him with an ax. Then, a little later, Mr. Williams got uneasy about Chisholm and made me get him. Me and Mr. Williams took him to the river one night and pitched him over the bridge after we weighted him down. Charlie begged hard, but Mr. Williams said: 'Let's throw him over and have it over with.'"

Helped Drown Six.
"I don't know how many negroes there are in the river, but I helped drown six. I was the driver of the boat. We took the other five to the river at night, after getting them out of their houses, and chained 'em down with rocks and threw 'em in' he continued.

"Yes, sir, they all cried and begged—and some of 'em asked to be killed before they were thrown down. But Mr. Williams wouldn't do it and wouldn't let me do it—we just threw them off the bridge and rode on back to the plantation."

Most of the drowned negroes came off the farm of Mr. Huyler Williams—my boss' son. But a few of the Williams' negroes were 'bad' and wanted done away with came off of his own farm.

Most of these dead negroes was originally from Atlanta, Macon, or somewhere else; they didn't come from Jasper county. Mr. Williams, the son of my boss, would go to Atlanta and Macon and get some more negroes and stockade by paying their fines. I used to hear him and his father talking about all that.

"Well, they brought the negroes to the farm and put 'em to work, and kept guards over 'em all the time so as not to let 'em get away or talk too much. I don't know whether they pay or not, but I know Mr. Williams paid me $20 a month and board," the negro asserted.

"Of course, mister, I'm sorry I knocked all them boys in the head and helped Mr. Williams do away with them others, but there wasn't nothing else I could do—the boss told me if I didn't do as he said, I would be the next dead negro around there. I admit I have always been mighty afraid of Mr. Williams."

Confession Is Held.
Solicitor-General A. M. Brand and other officials held a conference with Governor Hugh M. Dorsey relative to the case Friday afternoon, but the chief executive refused to give out what transpired other than the latest developments in the case were discussed.

Agents of the department of justice who have been investigating the peonage charges for the past several weeks were at Jasper and Newton county last night, but Vincent Hughes, chief of the local bureau, stated that he had received instructions from headquarters in Washington to make a complete probe.

At present the activities of the agents are centered in Jasper and Newton counties for the reason that Manning declared that some of the killings occurred in each of them. The governor denied that any request for a declaration of martial law in Jasper had been received, even though the situation is regarded serious.

SERVICE ALLOTMENTS TO EXPIRE JULY 31

Ruling Says All Allowances Under War Risk Insurance Act Come to End.

Washington, March 25.—Military allotments and allowances under the war risk insurance act will expire automatically July 31, Comptroller Warwick, of the treasury, holds, in a ruling made public today.

The ruling was based on the resolution adopted by the last congress repealing most of the special wartime acts. War risk insurance bureau officials were unable today to give accurate figures concerning the number of soldiers, sailors and marine allotments which would be affected, but they said thousands of men still in the service both at home and in the American army on the Rhine were maintaining the allotments to their relatives and that the government likewise was supplying an equal amount.

Mr. Warwick holds that the resolution repealed the war risk insurance act within four calendar months and its expiration by congress and that, consequently, the allowance made by the government to equal the allotment of members of the military forces must cease after July 31.

PASSENGER TRAIN WRECK IS BLAMED ON HIGH SPEED

Washington, March 25.—The derailment of a Missouri Pacific passenger train near Gulpha, Ark., on February 18, which resulted in the death of two employees, the injury of 61 passengers, three employees and a trespasser, was due to excessive speed of the train in rounding a curve, the bureau of safety of the interstate commerce commission announced today.

This accident was caused by Engineer Sullivan, who was in the train around a curve at an excessive rate of speed, resulting in the derailment of the train. The report said the track was in good condition.

WILSON SUFFERS ACUTE ATTACK OF INDIGESTION

Washington, March 25.—Former President Wilson suffered an acute attack of indigestion today, which caused hurried calls for medical assistance. It was said, however, that he had entirely recovered an hour after the attack.

Dr. Sterling Ruffin, who attended Mr. Wilson in the white house during his serious illness, arrived at the former president's Washington residence first, in answer to the calls, and upon leaving at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon said Mr. Wilson had so completely recovered that he was able to eat a light lunch.

The attack occurred about 12:30 p. m., Dr. Ruffin said, but had passed before he left the house. He said that Mr. Wilson was not serious in any way, and that the former president was in as good health as ever when he left.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Mr. Wilson's personal physician, also was summoned and reached the Wilson home after Dr. Ruffin arrived. Mr. Wilson had been suffering from indigestion for some years and has had several attacks since his illness following his transcontinental speaking tour in favor of the league of nations.

Congressman Upshaw Scores With Speech Before Maine Senate

Augusta, Maine, March 25.—(Special.)—The senate of Maine was treated today to a taste of Georgia wit and eloquence, which event that dignified body with a gale of laughter and applause, when Congressman Upshaw, of Atlanta, was presented to bring greetings from the south.

"The picture," he said, "of one lonesome democrat speaking to a legislative body that is hopelessly and solidly republican makes me think of a lone democratic farmer down in east Tennessee, who found himself in a gathering with 99 republicans as a man, but we would like to know how he feels being the only democrat among so many republicans."

Squire Johnson got up in section of the senate and towered 6 feet tall, spat tobacco juice through a knot hole in the floor and said, "Well, neighbors, I'll tell you how I feel—I feel just like a great big ear of corn among a lot of little nubbin'."

The republican senators answered with applause and laughter the good-humored sally, after which the Georgia representative made a ringing appeal for "an all-embodied, grateful American that will not forget the disabled soldier who offered his life for his country, and likewise for legislation, state and national, that shall make education and all forms of social justice and humanitarian endeavor its supreme consideration."

The senators rose to their feet with hearty cheers in greeting the Georgia congressman.

BANK EXAMINER'S REGULAR VISIT CAUSE OF RUN

Fort Payne, Ala., March 25.—The presence of C. R. Kenner, state bank examiner, who was making an ordinary inspection, caused a run on the Citizens Bank and Security company here yesterday, officials of the institution announced in a formal statement.

The bank is solvent, the statement adds, and will be open for business as usual in a few days when the examiner completes a thorough audit of its accounts. State authorities are investigating the source of rumors which caused the run, it was stated. Chattanooga interests have offered all assistance necessary in re-opening the institution, its officials said.

Bondmen Give Up Negro.

Anniston, Ala., March 25.—(Special.)—Bondsmen of Shack Ragland, negro, who was indicted by the recent circuit court grand jury on a charge of murder, have surrendered him to the sheriff. The negro was driver of an automobile which ran into a motorcycle on the Bulaton road last Labor day, killing a baby and injuring the mother, Mrs. James Vinson, who later died.

The negro had been under bond on a manslaughter charge until the grand jury found the murder indictment.

BOARD TO ENFORCE READING OF BIBLE IN ROME SCHOOLS

Rome, Ga., March 25.—(Special.)—Judge Wright, of Floyd superior court, decided today that the city board of education must enforce the ordinance recently enacted by the city commission requiring the reading of the Bible and the offering of prayer daily in the public schools here. The case will be taken to the supreme court.

The board of education contended that the ordinance is unconstitutional because the Bible is the St. James edition and is sectarian.

THE STAGE IS SET!

In the investigation of the police board-detective department situation by a committee of council, soon to take place, somebody is going to be extended an opportunity to make a record—an opportunity such as is not often presented to a man in public life.

The Lexow insurance fraud investigation in New York made Charles E. Hughes governor of his state, then an associate justice of the supreme court, then presidential candidate of the republican party, then secretary of state of the United States.

Current history is full of similar instances—instances of men rising to positions of eminence solely by reason of their having been big enough to make the most of an opportunity to render unusual public service.

All that the people want from this investigation is the naked truth, stripped of all side issues.

They want to know this—

Why was open gambling, bunco stepping, wire-tapping, confidence and badge-gang operation, all manner of crime, in fact, including murder, permitted to flourish for four years in this city with the defective department never having lifted a hand, by its own initiative, or by the initiative of any city official, to stop it?

If it is true, as charged, that this criminal enterprise was permitted to run in brazen defiance of the law and decency, swiftding the public and even taking human life, the people want to know who was responsible, whether by connivance, criminal neglect or crass incompetence.

Stripped of all side issues and brought down to rock-bottom basis, the work of this committee is cut out for it!

Let us hope that its members will prove to be brave enough to face the music and do their full duty!

And if it so develops, we are going to hear more later on from some of the men who take advantage of this rare opportunity to put their true fiber to the test.

MORE HOME-BUILDING.

The home-building spirit is going to work wonders for the happiness and prosperity of every progressive section where it is in evidence.

The Albany (Ga.) Herald, speaking of what it is doing for that city, alone, says the number of new homes under construction is increasing every week.

And this includes business buildings for new enterprises.

And the Albany paper rightly says that "there could be no more hopeful sign that the spirit of confidence in the future is supreme."

The people are planning, and working on the basis of faith in good times just ahead. It is due to the courage of their convictions, and that is why they are getting things done right along.

The home-building spirit, in the hull, as well as large, towns, is indeed one of the best indications of returning confidence; for, as pointed out by our Albany contemporary—

"Building inevitably languishes when uncertainty concerning the future grips the public. The average person who puts up a building feels it necessary to borrow some hundreds, thousands or tens of thousands of dollars, and when a feeling of pessimism is abroad men hesitate to borrow, and those with money are not keen to lend it."

And new buildings going up are the best answer to the arguments of the pessimist who scans the skies for clouds and sulks when his storm-forecast fails; who is so often blind to prosperity when it knocks at the home-doors.

What he lacks is the home-building spirit.

"It is a great thing," says The Albany Herald, "to be a homeowner, even though the home be humble and the lot around it small; for—

"A man with a home has a tie of citizenship binding him to his country and its institutions which can be formed in no other way, and nothing could have in the promise of a greater future for the United States than the certainty of a steady increase in the percentage of its people who own their homes."

And, judged by the home-building spirit in Georgia, an increased percentage of home-owners is assured.

It is the spirit that not only builds the home, but is a big factor in the building up of the country in all its worthwhile work and enterprises.

CONCRETE HIGHWAYS.

The policy of taxing motor trucks according to their weight is being generally adopted by states and communities throughout the country; and it is right.

It is also expedient that motor trucks should be regulated in accordance with the carrying capacity and durability of the roadbed.

The motor truck is here to stay.
It is indispensable.

The only objectionable feature about the motor truck is that, because of its ponderous weight, it is ruinous to the common run of good roads.

It is so heavy that the ordinary road will not "stand up" under it.

Heavy truck usage quickly wears holes in the surfacing of macadam or asphalt paved roads, and highway authorities are compelled to meet inordinate cost burdens for the maintenance of highways over which there is extensive truck traffic; hence the justification of high license fees for such vehicles, and for law regulating the weight of trucks in accordance with the capacity of roadbed.

The ultimate solution of this problem lies not in regulatory legislation that would retard development of heavy-tonnage truck, for this type of freight carrier is public necessity, and it should be encouraged, but, as The New York Times says, it is to be found in—

"a system of concrete roads roughly paralleling the railways, and in the construction of this the trucks and their manufacturers should assume their part much as the railways have done."

The truck is here; it is here to stay; and it is needed.

So the thing to do is to shape our highway development plans, in so far as is practicable, to accommodate it.

Wherever possible our cross-country highways should be paved with concrete, laid on a solid, permanent foundation that will withstand almost any weight put upon it.

The initial cost of such construction is, of course, greater than that of highways of less durable types, but the difference is compensated by the difference in cost of maintenance.

There is no better illustration of this than is afforded by the "seedling mile" of concrete highway that was recently laid in Spalding county, near Griffin, and that has been extended since then until the original mile has been increased to fourteen miles—the full length of the Dixie highway in that county.

A roadway of that sort, once laid and paid for, gives the authorities no further concern, for it lasts indefinitely regardless of the weight of the traffic that passes over it.

It is cheap in the long run.

A New Jersey preacher preached a six-hour sermon recently, and it is said that both preacher and congregation are now doing as well as could be expected.

It looks like the republican plum-tree would be shaken to smithereens.

the advisability of getting sick natured. As a rule, they let him

But she surely knows the pathway —she'll get there after all!

It's the New Time, good people, with Earth-lights have made the stars the clouds!

The world is just a spinnin' clear to the heavenly wall.
But she knows the shinin' pathway
—she'll get there after all!

Explaining the "Kilowatt."

"A reader," says the Nodaway Forum, "asks: 'What is a kilowatt?
it is used by the electric company.'
We are glad to give the information. A kilowatt is a cross between a buzz saw and a cookie cutter. It has a habit of swelling out like a quart of rice in a pint cooking vessel. It is a cousin to the water meter. The latter has a habit of slopping over. It has been known when detached for repairs, to measure up to 5,000,000 gallons while being taken to the repair shop. Still a kilowatt is a handy thing to have in a family where milk is scarce.
It can also be used as a tack hammer in putting down carpets. It is not a safe thing for the baby to play with, and keep it out of reach of the cat."

Train Wouldn't Go Around Him.

The unexpected "kick" is related in the Seacory Citizen:
"There was a near accident on the railroad last evening just after the saw the pedestrian and stopped his train in due time. The party who was at that time wending his way home said he would about as soon have been killed as to have had to get out of the way of the train into the deep water along side of the track."

ture development of Atlanta.

For this reason our stand has been unequivocal from the beginning. Now that The Constitution has espoused its cause we feel that the future of the Technological high educational and industrial future for Atlanta.

We wish to thank you most

Bits of New York Life

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, March 25.—There is a possibility that writers of red-blooded fiction will emulate the actors and go on strike. Everyone said this and that wouldn't happen.
They were too artistic, but they did and the Authors' league is just now bursting with the spirit of revolt.
It is all about the moving picture rights to their stories. Mr. Hearst, they claim, who owns a very important string of magazines, makes the purchase of fiction contingent upon the making of a movie out of it.
Hearst replies with withering scorn that he does nothing of the sort and that he will write with the movie rights in view.

who upon hearing of a new tune in to jump to seek the large gain.

In short, so long as the movie in-

Those white-jacketed lads who deal "em off the arm in bananias where "water your overcoat" is the pass word, are going to be in the swirl of society next season. When quitting time comes—provided the quitting time is in season and the quitting isn't too thick on their coat fronts—they can stroll into the Ritz and get their clothes without exciting comment.

It is all because the New York Custom Cuffs club, which dictates what a man shall wear, has decreed that the white dinner coat shall henceforth be as fast as a white waistcoat and tie, it is to be worn in all seasons.

There is no denying that the movie influence in literature has been overwhelming, for good or for evil.
It has caused a revolution in literature, a revolution that has brought a popular magazine for 10,000,000 readers into the world. It has really written it with the movie rights in view and he did later sell those rights for $35,000 and a percentage of the gross receipts which brought him a total of $60,000.

Writers, of course, should view compulsion with lofty indifference.
And yet writers must eat. (Voice: Who said so?) And it will be difficult for all of them ready to jump to seek the large gain.

Yellow Jackets Open Season By Swamping Cincinnati U.; Four Home Runs Feature Game

O'Leary's flinging was about four or five feet into the air. He was followed the offense by striking the back of the head of the man who was in the fifth when he based Irwin, first man up, and then came back to the fifth base. The crowd, Wydman and Langdon in succession.

The manager crowd turned out for the conflict, some 1,800 fans witnessed the fight. The fight was over when the Jackets began their 1920 campaign against Erskine just 10 to 0, and O'Leary did the hurling. Coach Clay will probably send Sunday afternoon, with Ed Liddell going to the game. The game was won by Frank Asbury, of the Tech nine, was out in uniform for the first time in two weeks, sitting on the bench. He still has to use a cane.

WHAT IS THE PROFIT
IN MUSCLE SHOALSSecretary Weeks Would Urge Completion of the Project for Guarantee.

Washington, March 25.—If any industrial organization will guarantee the government a fair return on its investment at Muscle Shoals, on the Tennessee river, the federal power commission will recommend that the additional $30,000,000 necessary to complete the project be appropriated, he announced today.

About $16,000,000 has already been spent at Muscle Shoals and the question of the final disposition of the project is one of the most serious matters the power commission inherited from the last administration.

Mr. Weeks said today that many industries had urged that the Muscle Shoals project be completed. He asserted that he would champion such action if any reliable organization would agree to take over the big plant and guarantee the government a reasonable return on its total investment.

FOGS ARE BLAMED FOR PLANE CRASH

stop me," Lieutenant William Devoe Coney, transcontinental flyer who crashed at 7:30 o'clock this morning, declared this afternoon shortly before he was conveyed by automobile and train to Natchez, Miss., where he will be given treatment at a sanitarium.

"I wanted to break my own record in my trip back to the Pacific, and my keenest regret is that I have failed," the injured flyer continued. "I know that I would have established a new record if I had not been beaten by nature. It is pretty hard to overcome the laws of gravity and to find out new things in nature. I thought that I was learning some of her secrets."

He would have won out if it had not been for those fogs along the Mississippi river. I had a fair flight until I struck the fog banks along the river, and then I lost my way. I was flying low, and I was making a landing because of engine trouble, when I struck a tree and went down. I do not remember much about what occurred after I struck the tree until I found myself in the arms of the military group. Was Despondent at First.

Lieutenant Coney early in the day kept repeating over and over that he was going to die, but his physicians had urged him to go to some extent this afternoon, and he was inclined to take a more philosophical view of the accident. His keenest disappointment is over his failure to set up a new record; the fact that he may die or be maimed for life being secondary, according to those who have talked with him.

Doctors C. M. Darrell and J. W. Winn, who attended the young flyer throughout the day, were not prepared to say tonight as to whether he would recover or not. "I fear that he will be crippled or paralyzed for life. Of course, there is hope, and I would not say definitely he will not recover the use of his limbs, but the chances are against him."

Doctors Darrell and Winn late today issued the following report as to his condition:

Doctors' Report.

"Lieutenant Coney is paralyzed in his lower extremities. There is loss of sensation in the lower extremities. His temperature is 102.2, pulse 100, respiration 26. Lieutenant Coney is conscious and cheerful, but does not talk much."

The injured flyer late this afternoon sent a telegram to Miss Mary Morgan, San Diego, Cal., said to be his fiancée. The message was simply stating, "My plane fell this morning and my spine was seriously injured."

Flowers Are Sent.

After spending the day at the Moss Lanier farm Lieutenant Coney was taken to Winsboro this afternoon at 3 o'clock. He was in charge of J. O. Parker, Doctors Darrell and Winn, and others. At Winsboro he was transferred to a train for Natchez, where he was due to arrive early tonight.

News of the Churches.

Both the engineer and the fireman did all in their power to bring the engine to a halt, but the engine was unable to stop it in time. Both leaped from the engine just before the locomotive struck the car. The tender of the locomotive did not leave contact.

Wrecking crews of both the A. & A. and the Central of Georgia railroads were dispatched to the scene, and it is believed that the engine will be set upright before morning.

It is stated that the watchman had gone a short distance up the track shortly before the engine was seen to start down the chute.

Deflation Not Yet Accomplished, But Natural Laws Are Operating to Readjustment.

Reviews of the Week.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 25.—The Iron Trade Review today says:

Some reaction from the recent depressed condition of trade in iron and steel continues to be shown by a more diversified volume of new business. The industry is not yet ready to accept this change as denoting a fundamental reversal of a poor situation. The maintained inaction on prices of the Steel corporation continues to be closely watched by prospective buyers and confidence in the market, while somewhat stronger, still is slow to respond. If production all round is no greater, at least, it is more evenly distributed among the independent plants as demonstrated by the lengthening list of fractional assumptions of steelworks and still larger steel corporations. The output is close to 40 per cent this week and falling steadily. The Carnegie Steel company has 25 blast furnaces in operation which is only one more than the low record in 1914. Most blast furnaces soon to go out will bring the active list to the lowest number in history.

Demand for steel from the automobile industry are not large relatively, but they have been growing considerably in recent weeks and releases of withheld orders are keeping up. With business to hold in check, a disposition is growing among independent producers to follow the government and maintain prices, especially since many recent quotations are said to have been made on a basis of a full day's work. The composite market average of The Iron Trade Review this week is $44.00 in 1914. Most last week's average was $43.81 in January and $51.73 in February.

PLAN MILLION-DOLLAR HOTEL FOR ATLANTA

which was recently shown in an article published in The Constitution, Mr. Manget recently purchased the Cecil hotel as it now stands. He at once employed the firm of L. Lloyd Preacher & Co. to design an addition to the building to be erected over the Rich property immediately in the rear of the present building, occupying the corner of Cone and James streets. His faith in the promised advancement and expansion of the business section of Atlanta in the direction of Spring street was enhanced by the favorable vote recently of the people in the bond election, when the citizens of this city authorized the expenditure of $750,000 for the building of a viaduct that will connect Spring street with the south side of the city. This viaduct, which will serve the new Spring street business section, will bring a large percentage of arrivals at the Terminal station into the north section of Atlanta, and upon this idea Mr. Manget ordered his architects to change the original plans and enlargement of the Cecil, and added greatly to the design as at first contemplated.

The purchase of the Cecil hotel, which was recently made by Mr. Manget from H. R. and C. R. Cannon, involved the expenditure of $300,000. The purchase of the Rich property, which is situated on the corner of Cone street and the present Cecil, amounted to $120,000. The cost of the new hotel, including the viaduct, will be approximately $200,000. The new hotel, which will be a five-story building, will include the installation of high speed elevators and other equipment. The installation of these elevators will cost more than $100,000, while incidentals, such as architects' fees, and expenses of other kind, will amount to more than $100,000, making a total that runs nearly to the million dollar mark.

The Cecil, which is one of the newest of the Atlanta hotels, stands at the corner of Luckie and Cone streets. It fronts 50 feet on Luckie street and extends along Cone street 125 feet to an alley between the Cecil property and the Rich property that now contains a three-story brick commercial building.

The present building is nine stories high and contains 112 rooms, each of which has a private bath. The addition, which will have a frontage of 50 feet, including the 25-foot alley on Cone street, when added to the present building will have a total dimension of 50x200 feet. This will give a total ground floor space of 10,000 square feet, giving a total floor space to the building, considering the basement and the nine floors above it, of 100,000 square feet.

The new part of the hotel will have 200 rooms, making a total of 312 rooms for the entire building. This will make the Cecil the largest hotel in Atlanta, and one of the largest in the South. It will be equipped with private sanitary features as above mentioned, but it will be one of the finest and most convenient commercial hotels in the country.

Designed by Specialists. Designed by architects and engineers, who have made the erection of hotels a specialty, the new Cecil will have every modern device and convenience known to the hotel builder's art that will contribute to the comfort and pleasure of the commercial patron.

Standing practically in the heart of the new business section, the new hotel will be practically in the northern landing of the proposed viaduct to be run from Spring street to the city's principal railway station. The new building will occupy the entire western end of a block bounded by Luckie and Cone streets, and with its handsome elevation, as shown in the accompanying cut, it will be the first structure to attract the eyes of the visitor landing from the viaduct on the north side.

Thousands of people will be attracted by the handsome appearance of the new hotel, and it is believed, as they land for the first time on the north side. It is estimated that fully 95 per cent of the passengers arriving in the Terminal station will use the new viaduct, being driven by the new bridge to reach the hotel and theater district instead of going through the present badly congested bottle necks that lead through the center of the city.

Site Said to Be Ideal. This fact alone is said by hotel experts and realty men to make the site for the new Cecil hotel one of immense value, but this value is greatly enhanced by the fact that the new building will stand almost within stone's throw of all the theaters, the public buildings, the great commercial houses and the other hotels of the city. It will have all the above named advantages, with the added one of being located on a newly paved street just a little bit removed from the bustle and congestion that serves to make some hotel locations objectionable.

Added to the location of the building, and the other advantages which will make it a well known ideal commercial hotel, the new enterprise will be not only erected to conform with the famous Statler plan of hotel building, but under the management of H. R. and C. R. Cannon, its lessees, the Cecil will be operated upon the Statler plan that insures the maximum of service and convenience to patrons. It will be the second hotel of Atlanta to adopt the Statler plan of operation, the other being the Wincoff, which is one of the most popular hotels of the South. The Statler plan, which places the patron first, in all instances, is used by many of the largest and most famous hotels of the eastern cities.

Plans in Detail. The plans given out by the designers indicate that the new Cecil will present an appearance of such beauty that it will at once become the pride of the new business district. The style will be that known as "modern hotel architecture," by which the designs of a number of specialists are combined in an ensemble that provides not only for beauty of outline and artistic surroundings, but also for the utility of the project with reference to the convenience and luxury to be enjoyed by the guests.

The big addition to the Cecil will be, like the present structure, constructed entirely of re-enforced concrete, and will be absolutely fire proof. Every device known to the modern hotel engineer and architect will be employed to make the new building attractive.

Each room in the big building will be especially designed for home-like beauty and convenience, and the woodwork and furnishings will be especially made at great cost. The baths, one to each room or suite, will be tiled throughout, and the baths will be of the built-in variety, an innovation in Atlanta. The electric lighting, the heating, the ventilating and sanitary fixtures will be specially designed and of the most beautiful type.

The elevators to be installed in the new building will be of the most modern high speed type, and they will be artistically enclosed in handsomely designed shafts.

Handsome Rotunda. On the ground floor of the building, which will be the most modern and enlarged, making it into one of the most beautiful hotel lobbies in the South. Here, in addition to the elevators, will be the offices of the hotel. There will be also a news stand and other adjuncts that will contribute to the convenience of the guests. In this part of the building there will be an elaborate coffee shop, which will be an unique addition to the hotel. The entire building will be operated with high-classed cuisine, up-to-date service and artistic surroundings that will make it one of the most popular gathering places of the city.

The hotel will be leased by H. R. and C. R. Cannon, who also operate the handsome Georgian hotel at Athens, but it will be directly under the management of Messrs. De Jarnette, one of the most popular hotel men in Atlanta. He will have the management of the hotel under his direction at all times. On the ground floor of the new hotel there will also be five store rooms, which will be leased to occupants doing business in the city that will contribute, more or less, to the convenience of the patrons of the hotel. These store rooms, which will be new features of the Spring street business district, will have entrances on James and Cone streets.

Handsome Offices. Above the ground floor will be a mezzanine floor, on which there will be constructed a number of choice up-to-date offices. These offices will be of the highest class, modernly equipped, with ideal heating, lighting and ventilation. They will have entrances on Cone and James streets, and will be leased to only the highest classed tenants. Below the ground floor in a basement twelve feet in depth there will be a billiard room, a billiard parlor, etc., and here also there will be installed one of the handsomest billiard and pool rooms in the South. A bowling alley and vided in the basement for the patrons' amusements will be provided as well as the general public. This amusement feature of the hotel will be given special attention by the managers, and it is expected to become a popular center for clean sport and amusement.

In financing the new hotel enterprise Mr. Manget was assisted by G. L. Miller & Co., an Atlanta firm of financiers, who have a most unique and modern manner of raising funds for such enterprises. Printing many thousand circulars, which are sent to various money men and interests throughout the country, the name of Atlanta is thus presented to many thousand people. Messrs. Miller and company have financed many such projects as the Cecil, and are using their influence and the assistance of their offices to interest people of other sections in the needs of Atlanta at this time. G. L. Miller and company are located in the Hurt building.

Kiser Company Makes Deal. The realty company making the sale of the property to Mr. Manget, and the lease of the building when completed to H. R. and C. R. Cannon, is the M. C. Kiser Realty company, which is headed by Marion C. Kiser, one of the best known and popular real estate men in Atlanta. The deal involving the Cecil hotel, however, was handled directly by J. W. Wicks, one of the best known salesmen in the Kiser agency.

The firm of Griffith Construction company, general contractors for the new Cecil hotel, are among the largest and best known building contractors in the South. They have taken part in the erection of many of the largest buildings in Atlanta, and have worked on important buildings all over the South.

The firm of G. Lloyd Preacher and company, designers of the New Cecil hotel, have offices both in Atlanta and Augusta. They have made a special study of public and semi-public buildings, and have erected many of the best known hotels in the South, including the Linwood, the Plaza, the Partridge inn and the Terminal hotels at Augusta, the Monroe, at Monroe, Ga. while they are now preparing plans for the Hotel Sherman at Dothan, Ala., and another at Beaufort, S. C.

The plans for the new Cecil will be placed in the hands of the various architects at once, it has been stated, and the new building will be completed as quickly as possible.

DUBLIN CHAUTAUQUA CLOSING ON FRIDAY Dublin, Ga., March 25.—The chautauqua will come to close here tonight after three days of attractions, which included music and lectures, and first-class entertainment.

As a whole, the program this year was up to a high standard, and the people of the city were thoroughly pleased with the features of the meeting.

GEORGIAN CAUGHT, AFTER LONG CHASE

Detectives Arrest Sandridge in New Orleans, Declaring He Escaped Six Years Ago.

New Orleans, March 25.—Thomas J. Sandridge, 32, salesman, who is alleged by the police to have escaped from a deputy sheriff while on his way to the Georgia penitentiary following his conviction on a charge of swindling at Gainesville, Ga., six years ago, was taken into custody by local police and detectives from Georgia here late today.

According to the police and the Georgia detectives Sandridge was tried and convicted at Gainesville six years ago and sentenced to nine years in the penitentiary, but eluded the officer having him in charge while on the way to the state prison. His arrest here is said by the detectives to be the end of a six-year chase by them in which they have followed the accused man through a number of states, the trail recently leading through Texas to this city.

Theater Crowds See Hot Chase For Liquor Car

Machine Is Captured and One Man Is Placed Under Arrest.

A lively chase by federal officers after a whisky car, ending near the federal building in the arrest of one man, the capture of an automobile and three gallons of whisky, and the escape of one occupant of the car, furnished considerable excitement for crowds of Atlantans Friday night. It was late, and the theaters were just beginning to empty their crowds to the sidewalks. The whisky machine was first seen in an alley running between Third and Fifth streets.

As the car sped through the streets, the officers kept just a few feet to the rear in their machine. Near the postoffice the machine halted, and the two occupants were arrested. One of the men made a break for liberty, and fled around a corner.

The chase was renewed on foot. Four shots were fired at the escaped prisoner, but he succeeded in eluding the officers. The other man, who gave his name as C. E. Springs, was kept in jail for the night, and will be arraigned today in completion of the court. The automobile will be appraised by the prohibition department and sold to the highest bidder within a few days.

ADMISSIONS STAND IN EXPRESS TRIAL

Alleged Confessions of Defendants at Macon Allowed by Judge Evans to Go in Evidence.

Macon, Ga., March 25.—An extra session of federal court was held late this afternoon in the trial of fifty-three persons accused of conspiracy to steal express shipments from the United States government, but Assistant Attorney E. C. Powers was unable to complete the government's case. He announced that the government will rest Monday morning, to which time court adjourned.

The alleged confessions of R. S. Michael, E. E. Dunaway, H. L. Rucker and C. F. McMillan were introduced as evidence through Superintendent R. H. Mays, of the American Railway Express company, and it was over the admission of these confessions that the principal legal fight was waged. Judge Evans permitted the confessions to go in.

Most of the day was taken up with the identification of alleged stolen property. There were witnesses here from all parts of the United States.

C. H. Condy, express messenger, who pleaded guilty on the opening day of court, was the fourth and last witness to testify for the government.

Condy told of various transactions with different messengers and then got to E. E. Dunaway, agent at Ogilthorpe, with whom he said at one time he left a barrel of dressed hens.

Death Threats Charged.
"Later, after Hughes was arrested," the witness said, "I talked with Dunaway. I asked him what he would do if they tried to arrest him. He said, 'They'd try me for murder if a special agent ever came down here to arrest me.' Dunaway was arrested in a hotel in this city while on a honeymoon."

R. S. Flanders, of Pemberton, Va., testified that he expressed a dog to K. Davis, of Fort Gaines. The dog was returned to him one year later, he said.

Davis testified that he never received the shipment.

Superintendent R. H. Mays was permitted to repeat the alleged confession of C. F. McMillan that he stole the dog and kept it for a year.

Sheriff O. F. Tarver, of Dougherty county, told of raiding the home of O. R. Baker, where he got a bicycle and three pairs of shoes. A string of shoes that Hughes has testified that he gave to Baker was identified by the witness as being the ones seized in this raid.

Constable Lanier told of going to the farm of Captain J. N. Smith, conductor, where he said he took a wagon tongue out of a sprayer that was in use, and which the government charged had been stolen from an express shipment. The tongue was on exhibition in court along with hundreds of other articles. R. S. Michael's confession showed he shipped the tongue to Smith.

noon, according to reports reaching Huntsville tonight. Telephone wires are down and the transmission lines of the Alabama Power company, which supplies electricity to Huntsville, Albany and Decatur were broken and these and other towns were without electric lights and power for several hours tonight.

To Decide Ownership Of Private Pullman Which Carried Liquor

Miami, Fla., March 25.—Arguments for release of Harry S. Black's private Pullman car will be heard in the circuit court here tomorrow. A case was delayed today on appeal from the circuit court, who asked more time in which to prepare briefs.

A motion to release the car on bond was taken under advisement by Judge Brannan, who will render a decision on this point tomorrow afternoon.

Black was discharged by the court yesterday from charges of transporting liquor in his car. His negro porter, J. R. Manley, appeared today and pleaded guilty to owning the liquor. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 or serve six months.

MOTORCYCLE OFFICER PAINFULLY INJURED
Motorcycle Officer P. B. Dailey was painfully injured Friday night at the corner of Lucile avenue and Holderness street when the machine he was riding overturned while in pursuit of a speeding automobile. Loose pavement at the street intersection is said to have caused the motorcycle to overturn. He was removed to Grady hospital, where his injuries were dressed, and then taken to his home.
